Message from the Director of University Relations

Last Friday we bade an old friend farewell. Faze I, which had played its role well, made a final exit from the GSU stage.

I hope you will warmly welcome our new player, GSU Landscapes. Why this change in cast?

First, for many of us, the very name, Faze I, had become a sad reminder of more bountiful days for Illinois higher education and for GSU. Veterans will recall that, as the University community moved from its warehouse campus to this new facility, the President deliberately named the new building "Phase One" to serve as a constant reminder to the University community, to its publics, and especially to important state officials that a "Phase Two" was promised and, in fact, was actively being planned. Alas, the environment changed drastically in subsequent years and plans for another building on this campus were dropped.

Second, over the years Faze I, our internal newsletter, attracted an external audience equal in number to the GSU community. This publication is now mailed to many former employees, governing boards and their staffs, donors, Foundation and Alumni Boards, elected state officials, etc. Most of the time this double audience caused no conflict. At times, however, the editors had difficulty handling an item of internal importance which need not, or, indeed, should not be shared with the general public. Because "Inscapes" is an insert in GSU Landscapes and will not be mailed to the external audience we will be better able to handle sensitive items while continuing our informal focus on GSU "family" news.

It is our hope that the University community will find "Inscapes" a useful and enjoyable vehicle for improving internal communication. We invite your suggestions about maximizing its communications potential.

Finally, as you can see, GSU Landscapes is typeset, courtesy the competent staff in the Instructional Communications Center. Our weekly newsletter will, therefore, have a more contemporary appearance than its predecessor.

I hope you are pleased with GSU Landscapes. The staff of University Relations is pledged to expanding the content of our internal newsletter as well as improving its format and functions. We would appreciate your reactions to this new protagonist in our University drama and look forward to hearing from you.
All that is valuable in human society depends upon the opportunity for development accorded the individual.

Published

Margaret Morton, (BPA), has received notification that her monograph, Mainstreaming in Business Education, which was published by South-Western Publishing Co., March 1981, has been chosen for announcement in the August, '81 issue of Resources in Education. The monograph, intended to aid business education teachers, examines various aspects of the legislation concerning the education of handicapped students and presents methods of teaching handicapped students in regular business education classrooms.

Memorial Concert Set

A memorial concert in honor of the late Dr. Julius D’Albert, composer and father of Community Professor Dr. Francois D’Albert, will take place in the Music Recital Hall on Sunday, October 18 at 4:00 p.m.

The concert, featuring a number of the elder D’Albert’s works for violin and piano, will be highlighted by Francois D’Albert performing as violin soloist. Evangeline Mendoza Bourgeois, a 1976 GSU graduate and an accomplished harpsichordist, as well as a pianist, will be his accompanist.

Francois D’Albert is the leader, first violinist and founder of the GSU string quartet.

New Placement Magazine

The Placement Office announces the beginning of a new publication called the Career Communique. This monthly publication will inform the students and faculty about available jobs. There will also be some helpful hints on seeking and finding a job.

For more information regarding the Career Communique, contact the Placement Office, extension 2163 or stop in the office.

Quantitative and Written Competency Examinations

Robert L. Milam (BPA) has issued notification that the upcoming Quantitative Foundations for Business Administration and Written Communications Competency Examinations are required for all undergraduate and graduate students.

The Written Communications examination is a writing and grammar test. If a student does not pass the examination, then he/she is required to complete the three-hour course, Communications I, BPA3801.

The Quantitative Foundations for Business Administration examination is an algebra test. If a student does not pass the examination, then he/she is required to complete a three-hour course, Algebra, BPA3403.

An undergraduate student may receive credit for these courses that will apply toward graduation if he/she has not received credit previously.

Contact the College Office, Ext. 2241. The test will be given on the following dates: Note: Examinations cannot be repeated.

A Word from Bill Dodd

As CEO of the Foundation I found myself this summer playing the role of "general contractor" for the Mary Miss project. In this capacity I made almost daily requests for help from various people in the University. Invariably I received prompt, friendly, positive responses. In truth, in my seven years at GSU, I have never before witnessed such abundant cooperation on a major University project. Mary was overwhelmed at the level and consistency of the assistance provided her by members of the GSU community.

Now the project is all but over and it is time for me to thank formally those who made special contributions to the successful completion of "Field Rotation."

At the head of the list must be Bill Wickersham, Mike Foley, Chet Mallory, Dennis Hickey and the other members of Physical Plant Operations. Their interest, cooperation and hard work were essential. Without them Mary would still be out in the field. The same holds true of Rich Lazarski, Tim Arr, Tom Stepke, Collette McHale and Arlene Hylander, all of the Business Office, who generously offered Mary their business, accounting and purchasing skills. Dick Pride and Kathy Taylor (ASR), Dick Rainsberger and Jim Lohman (REGISTRAR) and David Weinberger (FA) all helped to handle the details required to admit, register and pay the 17 student helpers. Dick Burd, Jacob Liao, Karen Deslières, Suzanne Oliver and Gary Fisk (all ICC) saw to it that Mary's needs for photography and graphics were met promptly and competently. John Payne (CAS) and Bill Kryspin (PROV) patiently handled the academic details required to appoint Mary a Community Professor and her four foremen as Adjunct Professors. Bob Jaynes (UR) worked tirelessly on a comprehensive public relations campaign about the project. Pat Burkhardt (UR) generously handled the literally hundreds of clerical details. Lorene Roberts (UR) graciously and efficiently solved several emergencies. Betty Kott, Eddy Abakporo and Buzz Hume of the INNOVATOR staff kept the students informed with sensitive and careful stories. The power plant staff provided equipment, advice and constant encouragement to Mary's welders. Norm Love and his officers kept a special, overnight eye on the construction site with its valuable lumber. Ron Brubaker and Ed Cehelnik (CAS) even put their expertise in computers to work solving an especially complicated engineering problem which threatened to delay the project. Thanks also to Mel Freed (VP, ADMIN) who enthusiastically coordinated so many of the services provided Mary by GSU.

I have probably neglected to mention others who made significant contributions. Please forgive. To these and to all I've mentioned above, a heartfelt thanks. Without you it couldn't have been done. You have helped to make us all proud to be GSUers.

A Message from the President

Some ten months ago, you will recall, Dr. McCray voluntarily requested that the State Board of Education withdraw its entitlement of Governors State University's School Counseling and School Psychology majors. The request, which was granted, followed upon the Provost's discovery of insufficient administrative structure in these two majors.

Last Friday the State Board of Education, I am pleased to announce, once again entitled our majors in School Counseling and School Psychology. I cannot exaggerate the importance of this action. Our voluntary request for removal of entitlement was unprecedented and risky. Dr. McCray took this step, however, because he was confident that the faculty of the Human Relations Services Program would resolutely address their procedural problems and that the two majors would soon again earn entitlement. His confidence was well placed.

I commend the faculty of Human Relations Services and their Division Chair, Addison Woodward, for their prompt, efficient and successful handling of this matter.
