GSU'S Morton Wins National Award

John Morton, director of the Office of Economic Education at GSU and economics teacher at Homewood-Flossmoor High School, has been awarded an honorable mention prize of $1,000 for his entry in a competition sponsored by the Joint Council on Economic Education.

The entry was entitled "Teaching the Economic Way of Thinking to High School Students: A Comprehensive Program." It was one of only five winning entries.

The winning programs were selected from more than 150 entries submitted by teachers in 35 states and Canada. The awards mark the culmination of a year-long competition for the best programs to teach reasoning to three categories of people: Elementary and secondary students; college and university students; and adults.

Morton's entry began, "Students do not develop economic reasoning by gimmicks or shortcuts. They need constant reinforcement of economics concepts at all levels of learning — knowledge, comprehension, analysis, evaluation and synthesis. The teaching approach used by economics instructors at Homewood-Flossmoor High School is a four-step process. Each step pushes economic reasoning to a higher level of learning."

Said Morton, "Ten years ago, teaching economics in high school wasn't as widespread. But people are beginning to realize that our lives are greatly affected by the state of the economy."

The Joint Council on Economic Education, which sponsored the contest, is a nonprofit organization whose purpose is to improve the quality and quantity of economics taught in the nation's schools and colleges.

The Office of Economic Education at GSU is one of only eight such organizations in Illinois approved by the Illinois Council on Economic Education in accordance with the Joint Council. Morton has been its director since the Fall of 1980.

Elizabeth and Donald Dolan join Dr. Leo Goodman-Malamuth II, (left) president of Governors State University, in the support of higher education through a contribution of $5,000 for the GSU Foundation's Donald and Elizabeth Dolan Endowed Scholarship in the College of Business and Public Administration. The endowment, which was established by the Dolans in 1981, now totals $10,000. Mr. Dolan is owner and president of Calumet Brass Foundry, Dolton.

Fall Trimester Registration Begins July 15

GSU is holding advance registration for the 1982 Fall Trimester from July 15 through August 14 for degree-seeking students during regular hours in the Registrar's Office.

Students who participated in advance registration must return to GSU on August 24-25 to obtain their schedules and pay tuition and fees. Students who did not participate in advance registration may register and pay fees on August 25. Classes will begin on Monday, August 30, and end on December 11.

Normally, students who register in advance have priority over students who register later in selection of and enrollment in their desired courses.

New students seeking to enroll in degree programs at the junior, senior or master level must submit applications and credentials no later than August 25. Coursework completed by students-at-large is not automatically applicable to a degree program. The transfer of such courses is governed by policies established by the deans and faculty of each College.

GSU is geared to the needs of the commuting students. It is mandated by the state to offer programs for students who transfer from community colleges, who otherwise have acquired 60 semester hours of college-level credit or the equivalent, or are qualified for graduate study at the master's level.

For further information, call the Office of Admissions, extensions 2518, 2519 or 2510.
GSU Repeats Seminar on Calculator Use

Getting the most use out of a modern electronic calculator in conducting real estate, investment and similar businesses will be the central theme of a one-day seminar being offered for the third time by GSU at 8:30 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. on Friday, July 9.

Frank A. Bella, a veteran real estate broker and senior instructor of the Realtors National Marketing Institute, will again conduct the seminar, which has been heavily attended in both previous offerings.

Using the Texas Instrument Business Analyst II calculator, participants will learn such vital procedures as calculating the yield of a discounted mortgage, the points needed to achieve a certain yield for a loan, or the yield to the contract seller. Other exercises will involve mortgage payments, mortgage balances, term and interest rates, and amortization schedules.

Students must bring their own T.I.B.A.II calculators, particularly designed for business and real estate financial functions. The cost of $40.00 includes instruction, coffee breaks and materials.

Enrollment is limited.

For further information, contact Peg Donohue, Special Programs, at extension 2549.

GSU Adds Weekend Courses for Fall Trimester

HLD is offering greater opportunity for weekend students through the availability of 25 courses to be offered on campus during the Fall Trimester, according to Tulsi Saral, acting dean of the College.

The course offerings are of special interest to those students who work during the week and are unable to take either daytime or night classes and those who have taken classes off campus and need to fulfill the residency requirements for graduation.

Saral says that each of the seven degree programs offered by HLD will be represented in the weekend courses. Six classes will be available for the full Trimester (Block 1) beginning the first weekend in September and running through the second weekend in December. Thirteen are scheduled for the first half of the Fall Trimester (Block 2) which ends the third weekend in October. Six more will be held during the final half of the Trimester (Block 3) beginning the fourth weekend in October.

The registration period for these courses, as well as all weekday classes on campus is July 15 to August 14. Admission application and credentials for degree-seeking students matter. Students-at-large may sign up during open registration on August 25. For further information contact the dean’s office at extension 2355.

Thank You

On behalf of the IRP staff, the University Commencement Committee, the Associate Provost, and the President, we wish to express our appreciation to the entire University community for your cooperation and effort in making our annual commencement a success.

Virginia L. Piucci
Chairman, Commencement Committee

Saying Goodbye . . .

To Alan and Nancy Hamilton, long time residents of the area and staunch friends and good neighbors of GSU. Alan is a GSU graduate and was a Distinguished Student of the Year award winner in the former CEAS. Nancy was a writer for the Acorn newsletter and has contributed articles to the “Creative Woman.” Alan is a member of the Community Advisory Council.

There will be a going away party for them, a pot luck dinner, to be held on the patio outside the Hall of Governors, weather permitting, Friday, July 2 from 5 p.m. to 10 p.m. All friends of the Hamiltons are welcome to attend.
