Three named to administrative positions

Three administrative positions at GSU have been filled by President Leo Goodman-Malamuth II.

Dr. Lawrence Freeman, former dean of the College of Education, has been named associate vice president for academic affairs. In his new position Dr. Freeman will be responsible for academic program planning and budgeting, program reviews, grants and contracts, and liaison work with faculty committees.

Dr. Freeman came to GSU in 1983 as dean of the College of Education. He previously served as manager of the Teacher Education Program Approval for the Illinois State Board of Education in Springfield, as associate director of the Study Commission on Undergraduate Education and the Education of Teachers at the University of Nebraska, and co-director of the Nebraska Confederation of Early Childhood Education.

The Homewood resident received a bachelor's degree from North Park College, and master's and doctoral degrees in English from the University of Nebraska.

The acting dean for the College of Education is Dr. Leon Zalewski who has been a GSU faculty member for 15 years. A former biology teacher, he now is a science education faculty member. Dr. Zalewski received the "1989 Faculty Excellence Award" for his teaching and was a 1988-89 recipient of a Faculty Development Alumni Award. He serves as president of Phi Delta Kappa-GSU fraternity of educators.

The Park Forest resident received his bachelor's degree from North Park College, and master's and doctoral degrees in English from the University of Nebraska.

Capital Development Board approves building, ground improvements

"What's going on now?" Workmen are making renovations to GSU's buildings and grounds as part of the continuing effort to improve our facilities.

The GSU cafeteria area is being enlarged. Outside contractors are redesigning the space by enclosing the patio area covered by the overhang. GSU's Physical Plant Operations crews will then install heating and cooling in the area, according to Susan Morriss, associate vice president for administration and planning.

Thermopane windows will be installed to replace the window wall that stretches from the Hall of Governors to the end of the ramp walkway. Two in E and F buildings also will be replaced, Morriss said.
The entrance to F-building also is being redesigned, Morriss explained.
These projects are funded as external structure rehabilitation projects by the Capital Development Board. CDB allowed GSU to use the remaining funds from the GSU brickwork project for these external projects, Morriss said.
Lawn replacement and new trees around the building, improvement to the gravel shoulders along the drives, and parking lots and driveways around the Physical Plant Operations building are being completed through a Capital Development Board site improvement project, Morriss added.

Madigan to be keynote speaker at GSU Conference

Mark your calendars for Saturday, Nov. 18. Illinois House Speaker Michael Madigan will be the keynote speaker at noon that day for the Illinois Political Science Association's annual conference on our campus.

Dr. Carl Stover, who is chairing the event, said Dr. Roger Oden, chairperson of the Division of Humanities and Social Sciences, is primarily responsible for arranging Madigan's visit to campus.

GSU staff members attend national convention

Four GSU staff members were among 280 delegates from Midwest universities who attended the National Universities Continuing Education Association Region IV meeting in Kalamazoo, Mich. Oct. 7 through 10.

GSU staff members Dr. Richard Venneri, dean of special programs and continuing education; Roger Paris, director of conference and workshops, and continuing education coordinators Polly Bernd, Grace Lebebvre and Sandy Mensch attended the meeting.

Lebebvre served as presider at the workshop "Professional Development Workshops" and Paris was presider at the "New Linkages between University and Community Museums" session.

Shakespeare company presents 'Hamlet' Nov. 10

The Office of Student Life presents the National Shakespeare Company's production of Hamlet at 8 p.m. Nov. 10. A 12-member traveling troupe will present the play, complete with period costumes and scenery, in the GSU Theatre.

Hamlet is considered Shakespeare's greatest tragedy. Dr. Daniel Bernd, professor of English, will explain the play's appeal during a free lecture and question/answer session at 6:30 p.m. in Engbretson Hall. If you plan to attend, please contact the Office of Student Life on extension 2123.

Cochrane, Juska join lobby for regional airport

Is a third airport really coming? After speaking with federal officials on Oct. 11, Christine Cochrane, director of the Small Business Development Center, and Dr. Jerry Juska, professor of marketing, believe the answer is "yes." The two took part in a one-day lobbying effort in Washington, D.C. that was coordinated by the Chamber of Commerce of the Southern Suburbs.

The delegation of business and civic leaders met with U.S. Rep. George Sangmeister, representatives of the Federal Aviation Administration and consultants from TAMS, the agency which is doing long-range studies and site plans. Meanwhile, a select group from the delegation also met with U.S. Reps. Marty Russo and Dennis Hastert and with a staff member for U.S. Rep. Edward Madigan.

John Ostenburg, director of university relations and a Park Forest trustee, also participated in the fly-in.

Lewis elected president of GSU Faculty Senate

Dr. Judith Lewis of the College of Health Professions has been elected president of the GSU Faculty Senate succeeding Dr. Zam Malik. She will serve a one-year term. Dr. Lewis was the senate's vice president last year.

Also elected were Professor Barbara Conant, university librarian, as vice president, and Dr. Karen D'Arcy, College of Arts and Sciences, as secretary.
