Book Club Schedule

Date:	Book Being Reviewed:
August 25, 2011	Black Dahlia by James Ellroy
September 22, 2011	The Help by Kathryn Stockett
October 27, 2011	The Warmth of Other Suns by Isabel Wilkerson

August 25, 2011 6:30 p.m. Location to be determined (at GSU)

The Black Dahlia by James Ellroy is an exquisitely written book of murder and obsession that takes the true details of the unsolved 1947 Elizabeth Short murder and creates a fictional story of a police detective determined to solve the case. The Black Dahlia is a page turning mystery novel, but it is also much more. Ellroy uses the story to delve into the dark recesses of the human psyche and force the reader to deal with obsession, evil, right and wrong.

September 22, 2011 6:30 p.m. Location to be determined (at GSU)

The Help by Kathryn Stockett is about African American struggles in the Deep South during the 1960s as told through the voice of house maids. Three maids, seemingly as different from one another as can be, nonetheless come together for a clandestine project that will put them all at risk. And why? Because they are suffocating within the lines that define their town and their times. And sometimes lines are made to be crossed.

October 27, 2011 6:30 p.m. Location to be determined (at GSU)

The Warmth of Other Sun, by Isabel Wilkerson, former national correspondent for The Times, is a masterly and engrossing account of the Great Migration, in which six million African-Americans abandoned the South between 1915 and 1970. The book centers on the journeys of three black migrants, each representing a different decade and a different destination.
