A RANK BOOK...that is a HUGH (PUKE) RANK (CCS) full-length literary analysis of Edwin O'Connor, the Pulitzer Prize author of The Last Hurrah, The Edge of Sadness, and other novels has been published as part of the set of Twayne's United States Author's Series (TUSAS). The late esteemed critic Edmund Wilson praised Rank's work as an "extremely intelligent" analysis of O'Connor's writing. Wilson, who the Saturday Review survey of 20th Century writing called second only to Faulkner as being the most influential literary figure, had read key sections of Rank's manuscript prior to publication. This will be the fifth book for Duke with two others about to be published and two previously published.
The Board of Governors of State Colleges and Universities has instituted an annual Board Committee evaluation of the presidents of the five institutions in the system. This fall evaluations will be conducted at Eastern Illinois University, Governors State University, and Northeastern Illinois University. Due to the fact that the president at both Chicago State University and Western Illinois University have just recently been appointed, an evaluation at these two institutions will not be conducted at this time.

In order to get input from the campuses and local communities, an evaluation questionnaire has been developed and is being administered for the Board at the Central Office staff with the assistance of the administrative officer responsible for conducting institutional research activities on each campus. Those being asked to respond include administrators, faculty, students, staff members, and those community members who are in a position to observe in a reasonably close fashion the work and style of the President. Because of the size of these groups not all individuals will be requested to participate. Those that will be requested will be selected from each separate group by sound random sampling techniques to ensure that the input received represents that of the group.

Questionnaires will be mailed on October 1, 1974. Should you be requested to participate in this process your cooperation in completing the questionnaire will be appreciated.
