Two kinds of gratitude: the sudden kind
We feel for what we take, the larger kind
We feel for what we give.

--E. A. Robinson

Happy Thanksgiving

Thanksgiving is the quintessential American holiday. Although we are no longer pioneers as were our forebears who celebrated the first Thanksgiving, our pilgrimage as a nation continues. The agonizing questions and implications of the Iranian situation only emphasize for us the responsibilities we carry as a nation which stands before the world as a defender of human rights, justice and equality. We can be humbly thankful for our Declaration of Independence and American Constitution.

We, the Governors State University family, are proud and grateful to play our important educational role in upholding this tradition. We can be grateful, too, for each other: a faculty dedicated and generous; a student body, bright and motivated; a civil service staff, loyal and committed; an administration, hard-working and productive.

Margaret joins me in wishing each of you and your families a joyful and relaxing Thanksgiving holiday.

Governors State University and the University Library will be closed on Thursday through Sunday, November 22-25. The University will reopen Monday, November 26. The Y:ICA will be closed only Thanksgiving Day.
