Sign Up for GSU Community Garden
You can watch your garden grow this summer – right here at GSU.

The University Sustainable Garden is making its debut this spring and GSU faculty, staff, and students have the first opportunity to sign up for plots ranging from 35 square feet for beginners to 400 square feet for experienced gardeners.

GSU’s community garden will give participants a chance to grow a wide variety of vegetables using fully organic methods. The university is initiating the project to empower individuals and families to make healthy choices, build a sense of community, and provide a space to grow food in a custom-designed garden.

GSU will provide water for the garden site. Gardeners must bring their own tools and seeds, and agree to follow organic gardening principles. To be eligible for a garden plot, gardeners must pay a nominal fee, from $10 to $20 depending on plot size, and agree to the rules and policies of the community garden by May 31. Garden plots are available on a first come, first served basis.

To apply for a University Sustainable Garden plot, contact the Facilities Department at 708.534.4515 or visit www.govst.edu/garden.

CBPA Professors Publish Articles

Please join CBPA Dean Ellen Foster Curtis in congratulating Dr. Stephen H. Wagner and Dr. Natalia Ermasova on the recent publication of journal articles:

Dr. Wagner’s article, titled Leadership and Responses to Organizational Crisis is published in the June edition of Industrial and Organizational Psychology: Perspectives on Science and Practice. Industrial and Organizational Psychology: Perspectives on Science and Practice is an official publication of the Society for Industrial and Organizational Psychology. The first issue of the journal debuted in March 2008, produced by Wiley-Blackwell Publishing, an industry leader in journal publishing.

You can read Dr. Wagner’s article.

Dr. Ermasova’s article, titled Capital Budgeting in the States After the Great Recession is published in State and Local Government Review, Volume 45 Issue 2, June 2013. State and Local Government Review was originally published by the Carl Vinson Institute at University of Georgia. Two years ago, Sage – the largest publisher of social science in the world – picked up and now publishes the journal. The journal is the official journal of the Section on Intergovernmental Administration and Management (SIAM) of the American Society of Public Administration (ASPA).

You can read Dr. Ermasova’s article.

FC14 Book Discussion – May 29

Join Dean of Students Aurélio Valente and Trustee Erin Fletcher for a discussion on the most recent research on students who enrolled in college between 2005-2014. They will discuss Generation on a tightrope: A portrait of today’s college students on Wednesday, May 29, at 10 a.m., in B2203.

The book provides insight into who GSU’s FC14 students might be and how best to prepare for their arrival next summer. Dr. Diane Dean, co-author of the book, will make a presentation on Wednesday, June 12, at 9:30 a.m., in E-Lounge.

Persons planning to attend the May 29 book discussion should RSVP to Lisa Carra.
While it is desirable to have read the text in advance, a LibGuide is now available with relevant materials so that reading the text in advance is not a prerequisite for active participation in the book discussion. In addition, a 10-minute podcast of Dr. Diane Dean is available to provide an overview of the text.

Kites & Kids Returns to Nathan Manilow Sculpture Park
Send your kite skyward over GSU’s magnificent Nathan Manilow Sculpture Park.

Kids & Kites, on Saturday May 18, from 1 to 4 p.m., gives everyone who loves flying kites – young and old – a chance to experience the sky above and great art ground-level at the nationally-renowned sculpture park.

Participants can color their kites before launching them into a spring breeze. Kite kits are $8 each. Kids & Kites will be held lakeside just north of the main university buildings.

Admission is free and sculpture park docents will be on hand for guidance. Kids & Kites is part of a series of events at Nathan Manilow Sculpture Park during its 35th anniversary year.
