NEW INDIVIDUAL QUIET STUDY AREA IN THE LIBRARY

Finals are just around the corner. Looking for a quiet place to study on campus? Check out the newly created Individual Quiet Study Space in the library. “Located across from the balcony, the quiet study space has been designed for those students who want to study on their own,” said Lydia Morrow Ruetten, Dean of the GSU Library.

“Over the years, the library has changed. We have experienced a growing need for group study and collaboration, so we now have group study rooms and areas for group meetings. However, many students still want the option of having a quiet, peaceful place to study,” she offered.

The space is open and available during library hours. It is possible to find individual desks, cubicles, electrical outlets along with comfortable seating along the windows. In addition, cubicles for quiet study can be found along the back walls of the library. If you are unsure as to where they located, ask at the Library Information Desk.

“Make the GSU library your destination when you need information,” offered Ruetten. “We in the library want all in the GSU community to consider The GSU Library your research resource 24/7. “
