The problem of qualifying one's performance has and will be subject to much discussion; no less with the subject of grades. The student might be able to produce quantitatively and qualitatively by other than traditional ways, yet when his/her future is influenced by antiquated methods of performance evaluations i.e. grades. The student might be subject to much discussion; it is quite conceivable that an instructor bound by tradition will hinder or impede that student's growth by rating her/him, lower or higher grade wise, depending on the circumstances at the time. The grading system tilts the structure of the university. Employers receiving transcripts would be able to determine an employee's knowledge through standard evaluative means. Concerned students turned out in full force when it came time to confront the SCEPT committee. Students, for the most part, who did attend the controversial meeting were not in agreement with the grading system's position on grades here at GSU.

The grading system is prevalent throughout our universities in the U.S.A. today and decide if GSU should continue on the "No-Grade" system it now maintains or initiate an alternate method. Sample statements in favor were... 1. A student can opt for a grade in each individual course as he sees fit. 2. A student who is motivated by competition should be allowed the choice of standard grades in keeping with the loose structure of the university. 3. Employers receiving transcripts would be able to determine an employee's knowledge through standard evaluative means. 4. A student would have less difficulty in transferring to another college for graduate studies. Statements against were... 1. This is an experimental institution and the experiment was to be in effect for a period of five years. To date, school has been in session only two years. Until GSU becomes accredited the effects of our competency-based educational experiment cannot be fully realized. 2. There is a need in higher education to establish a non-traditional method of grading. 3. What will happen to GSU students who do not opt for the standard grade? Will their competencies be meaningful? If a student should choose a grade for one module and not for another module, how will it affect the transcript?

Concerned students turned out in full force when it came time to confront the SCEPT committee. Students, for the most part, who did attend the controversial meeting were not in agreement with the grading system's position on grades here at GSU.

The objective reasons for this committee is to explore the pros and cons of the standard A.B.C grading system that is prevalent throughout our universities in the U.S.A. today and decide if GSU should continue on the "No-Grade" system it now maintains or initiate an alternate method. The air waves, the magazines, the newspapers and personal notes no doubt are filled with the latest news of former Vice President Agnew. I never knew the man personally, but no matter, news is my business and he is the news partly because of what he did/did not affect the lives of many people. More importantly now however perhaps because of what he did not do amongst which are: He did not get locked up for refusing to defend charges of income tax evasion, bribery, kickbacks and it was not publicly stated whether or not he would have to give up the accumulated green.

He did not have travel or living restrictions placed on him by the court. Elliot Richardson, attorney general, said, “I’m sure Mr. Agnew can live anywhere he wants to since the court has granted him a three-year schism between gathering by the justice court. Let's Talk About The I.C.

A very large number of GSU students depend upon the I.C. I therefore deem it appropriate to continue to make a loud noise concerning the commuter service they provide.

Every day we hear complaints from GSU students about this service they receive. The time has come when students are actually missing classes because the trains are late.

A student cannot ask his (or her) instructor to repeat a lecture because a late train caused him to miss it. This has become a very serious matter.

Illinois Central is proposing to increase fares again. Dig the irony — fares going up, service going down.

Commuters and students must wait from 10 to 30 minutes at the Homewood station for an unknown reason. And they must wait again at 3111 S. Inc. for another 30 minutes. This adds up to two delays in one trip that can involve a student up to one hour late.

This has got to stop.

I urge all interested students to protest. Write to the Illinois Central office at: Traffic Dept., 130 E. 11th pl, Chicago, IL or write to: State of Illinois, Transportation Dept., Transportation Study Commission, 222 So. College St., Springfield, Illinois.

We will be circulating a petition to be sent to the transportation department in Springfield, and to the Illinois Central general office in Chicago. I urge everyone to please sign it. Even if you don't commute, you should sign because you never know when you might need the train.

Now as a group, GSU students spend a respectable amount of money with the I.C. and as a group, we have a right to be heard. And as a group, GSU students will be heard.

Remember, your letters and your protests count. They are important.

Turn On To Creativity.

Dr. Bruce Meyers of The College of Business and Public Service would like to extend an invitation to all interested GSU community members to attend a weekly seminar called The Continuing Study of Creativity/Creative Thinking. The seminar has been in existence since 1969 and meets in room 2096 on Tuesday from 12:30 to 1:50. It is a free-wheeling meeting of people interested in various aspects of creativity.

Dr. Meyers defines creativity as a combination of previously known elements combined in a new way to better solve some new problem. In the seminar Dr. Meyers attempts to turn people on to the concept of creativity and how it can help them solve their particular problems. He leads discussion groups on any subject that seminar participants are interested in. Also he attempts to get people to formulate their own definitions of creativity and discover the common elements in each seminar which each definition that can be service to all.

Emphasis is placed on the consideration of alternative definitions of creativity, studying the many factors that inhibit creative thinking, and considering alternative methods and procedures for applying effective creative thinking to the problem solving process.

Dr. Meyers got the idea of forming the seminar last June when he attended the 19th annual Creative Problem Solving Institute in Buffalo NY. Several other universities throughout the country are running seminars on creativity and Dr. Meyers thought that such a seminar would be an asset to the GSU community. He hopes that he will be able to present programs on creativity to the community at large.

BY HERBERT C. WILLIAMS

In recent months, the government has been facing numerous challenges, including high inflation, political instability, and a growing national debt. These issues have led to widespread protests and social unrest, with calls for fundamental reforms to addresses the country's economic and political problems. In particular, the government has faced criticism for its handling of the pandemic, which has resulted in a significant increase in unemployment and poverty.

To address these challenges, the government has proposed a series of measures aimed at stimulating economic growth and improving the standard of living for the country's citizens. These measures include increased investment in infrastructure, reforms to the education and healthcare systems, and policies to support small businesses and entrepreneurship.

However, some critics argue that these measures are insufficient and do not address the root causes of the country's economic problems. They call for more comprehensive reforms, including changes to the political system and a redistribution of wealth, to ensure that the benefits of economic growth are felt by all citizens.

In the coming weeks, the government will need to carefully consider the impact of these proposed measures and how they will be implemented. It will also need to engage with civil society and opposition leaders to ensure that the reforms are inclusive and responsive to the needs of all citizens.

In conclusion, while the government has taken steps to address the country's economic challenges, more needs to be done to ensure that these reforms are effective and sustainable. It is crucial that the government continue to listen to the concerns of its citizens and work towards a future where all citizens can benefit from economic growth and development.

Just as GUS, which is located in a predominantly white community, has a white president, Chicago State University is located in a predominantly black community. And by just standards, Chicago State University should have a black president.

In response to the growing demands for a black president at Chicago State University, Sen. Richard Newhouse is in Chicago to meet with leaders of all student groups and institutions in the Midwest to found an ad hoc committee for the selection of a president.

This citizen's committee is composed of representatives from the business community, labor groups, student organizations, community colleges and community organizations and government administrative units.

To ensure that the black community interest be served and no candidate be selected without the participation of black citizens, the convening group agreed that all interested groups and individuals should send letters and telegrams, etc., to your state legislators and to:

ILLINOIS BOARD OF SUPERINTENDENT OF PUBLIC EDUCATION

100 North LaSalle Street, Springfield, Illinois 62706

AND TO EXPRESS YOUR CONCERN IN NO UNCERTAIN TERMS

Also, all interested groups and individuals may contact Mrs. Ross Moore at 312-241-4562 or 322-3315 for more information.

After this citizen's committee meets, Chicago State University is located in a black community. Ideally, black students should contact your College situation in larger numbers than other ethnic groups. And valid conclusion that a black president can formulate a University to the black student than a white president.

Issac Hayes Star In First Film

By Cassandra Wilson

November, 1973

For Puerto Rico

LIVING, LIVING, happy smiles,
Nostalgic mountains run for miles.
No social worker waiting in line,
Just God's good earth.

Oh Lady Land you don't possess
Man's cruel touch of credativeness;
Splenid beauty you hold near
Your laughing mountain stream;
Love flowers gently like a dream
And in your life forever;
Do I love you? Is my life constant?
Or am I living an unknown

In her own gentle way
She calls me to her side to stay.
Oh Lady Land you don't possess
Man's cruel touch of credativeness;
Splenid beauty you hold near
Your laughing mountain stream;
And shall it forever remain...

The Innovator welcomes Miss Ramonita Segarra, poet, as a contributor to Poetry Corner.

The Game

When I was a magit younger
I even decided to take on this task, we'll get a dynamic combination of Hayes' musical and screen talents whipped up deliciously into something for especial interest.

A Plea

Why can't we compromise?
Why can't we relate?
May it be too late.
I'm trying to deal with me
It's hard, can't you see?
The problems are mine, it's true
But it could be easier with help
From you. I want to come to be
But it's hard, can't you see?
I'm trying to deal with me
I want to come to be
To tell you, I love you.

And somehow I try to reason with me
To tell you, I love you.

In the alleyway to the game of basketball
And now as I walk through the same back alley way
I see the burning garbage and all that broken glass
And a little girl who is taken
Hit again and again and again.

Robert A. Blue

The Theatre Of The Absurd

Sex and the US. Scene

Let me trip your mind back to the spring of 1968, when behind the barn stood miss Ann and her black African lover man:

One old beat-up book of alphabet,
A few black man's tears,
I heard the desperate shouts
Of my sisters tears

And maybe I'll get mad
I see
If I don't
Life is not an end
To something to get and keep
As those who know "Know"?
Then life must be a beginning.

But if living is the beginning
Just where do we start?
When do we start?

If it is, that of some was born
"With It", while some acquired it,
And some still "Living in the dark"?
If so, why can't we see the light?

If we can't, we don't know how to create ourselves

Do to me that which the maids speak about commanded miss Ann
The chains were gone from the mind of the African blackman

Do to me that which the maids speak about commanded miss Ann
The chains were gone from the mind of the African blackman

When it was all over white miss Ann
decided to be a mother for a simple time to learn about your one, two, three who their father was
and also history, and psychology, and democracy and chemistry and the military.

By Robert A. Blue

Steel around his neck, steel around his legs guns at his heart
life or death, all at the command of white miss Ann

In the mind of the black man is the other times
When the morning sun was free now the white slave drivers held him captive

With the move of a hand from white miss Ann
the chains were gone from the mind of the African blackman

Do to me that which the maids speak about commanded miss Ann
The chains were gone from the mind of the African blackman

When it was all over white miss Ann
decided to be a mother for a simple time to learn about your one, two, three who their father was
and also history, and psychology, and democracy and chemistry and the military.
