Cafeteria improved

Does the cafeteria menu appeal to you these days?

Dave Cain, the new director of Ace Coffee Bar Inc. hopes so. He is revising the menu and operations to improve service to the cafeteria's customers.

Cain recognizes that many GSU staff members have shunned the cafeteria, but he is anxious for them to take a new look at what Ace has to offer, including new menus that will rotate every six weeks.

He also is adding items for the calorie and cholesterol-conscious and those with medical and religious dietary restrictions.

"I want to improve the quality of the product for the price (the customer) is paying," he said. "We are going to be more professional and customer-service oriented."

Cain's plans include two theme promotions a month, and he intends to upscale the catering service to include new items, such as stir-fried entrees.

GSU Arboretum Committee tours prairie model

Governors State's Arboretum Committee members learned the university can have an Illinois prairie model "on its way" in two or three years, according to Dr. Robert Betz, a professor at Northeastern Illinois University and director of UNI's Gensburg-Markham Prairie.

Committee members Art Bourgeois, Bill Dodd, Sharon Kramer, Ed Miller, Jo Shaw, Leon Zalewski and Catherine Esquivel were given a guided tour of the prairie by Betz and Ron Panzer, prairie manager.

They walked the 100-acre site examining wild rye, big blue stem, prairie willow, thistle, prairie dock, Indian grass, stiff goldenrod, prairie coriopsis, purple prairie clover and blazing star which are among the 225 varieties of prairie plants at the site between Kedzie Avenue and I-57 and 157th and 154th Streets.

As part of its arboretum proposal, committee members are hoping to recreate an Illinois prairie. There are several areas on campus that remain

Psychology and Counseling forms partnership with Board of Education

The Division of Psychology and Counseling has entered into a partnership with the Chicago Board of Education (CBE) to prepare staff members for school psychologist certification.

Lynell Stubbs, director of psychological services with CBE, asked GSU staff to design a program that would help the board fill its expected 68 vacant school psychologist positions over the next three years.

The Hazel Crest resident said his familiarity with GSU convinced him to approach the GSU staff to see if they would be willing to work in tandem with CBE. Governors State is one of two universities in the Chicagoland area offering

Ten welcomed to GSU faculty ranks this fall

By Marilyn Thomas

Governors State University is welcoming 10 new persons to its faculty ranks this trimester.

Dr. Glenna Howell is a professor of reading/language arts in the College of Education. She comes to GSU from the Center for Teacher Education and Educational Services at the State University of New York at Plattsburgh where she was an assistant professor of reading education.

Dr. Howell has bachelor's, master's and doctoral degrees from the University of Missouri at Kansas City.

Dr. Shensheng Zhao is a professor of computer science in the College of Arts and Sciences. He has been a research assistant and teaching assistant at Old Dominion University.

Dr. Zhao has a bachelor's degree from Beijing University, and master's and doctoral degrees from Old Dominion University.

Dr. Mercedes Graf is a professor of school psychology in the College of Education. She last served as school psychologist for Evanston Township High School and was an instructor at the National College of Education.

Dr. Graf has a bachelor's degree from Loyola University, a master's degree from Chicago State University and a doctorate from the University of Illinois-Urbana.

Dr. Bruce Fischer is a professor of management information systems/production management in the College of Business and Public Administration. He comes to GSU from Western Michigan University where he was an assistant professor in the Department of Management.

Dr. Fischer has a bachelor's degree from Western Michigan University, a master's in business administration (MBA) from the University of Chicago and a doctorate from Northwestern University.

Professor Elizabeth Jones is a professor of early childhood education in the College of Education. She has been directing the "Chicago Commons" program for inner-city teacher training at Roosevelt University.

The Grapevine

GSU receives gift of 1,000 tons of marble from Amoco

Governors State has been given a gift of 1,000 tons of marble from Amoco Corp. The slabs of Italian Carrara marble are being removed from the Amoco building in downtown Chicago after they began falling off the building. GSU is one of two places to receive the gift. Dr. Virginio Piucci, vice president of administration and planning, who negotiated the gift, said the marble will be graded and used to prevent erosion around GSU's lakes.

Amoco will use the remaining 41,000 tons of marble at its sites around the world.

New phone books available from Personnel Office

Illinois Bell has delivered new phone books. Included are the 1990-91 editions of the Chicago white pages, northwest suburbs, west suburbs, far west suburbs, far north suburbs, near north suburbs and the current edition of the Joliet directory. The books are available outside the Personnel Office on the first floor.

'Non-Homecoming/Harvest' dance offered Oct. 12

It's time to put on your dancing shoes for the free "Non-Homecoming/Harvest" dance at 8 p.m. Oct. 12 in the Hall of Governors. You'll be able to rock to the sounds provided by a deejay from "Complete Music."

This special event is sponsored by the Office of Student Life, the Student Program Action Council and the GSU Alumni Association.

GSU videoconference still being discussed

Governors State University's "Corporate America and the Environment" videoconference is still being discussed. Horst Rechelbacher, founder and chairman of Aveda Corp., who was a panelist, mentioned the program in an interview he gave recently to Industry Week magazine.

Segal's radio drama series nationally syndicated

The horrors of murder and other dubious acts have been brought to life in a series of 15, half-hour suspense dramas produced and directed for radio by Professor Eli Segal of the Division of Media Communications. Many of the programs, now airing on a public radio affiliate in Michigan, are based on original scripts the professor modeled after the radio dramas of the 1930s and 1940s. You may get a chance to hear them in the Chicago area. The series will be syndicated nationally in February.

Professor Segal also has produced and directed a 28-part radio drama series, "Future Tense!," for Doubleday Book Club. The programs will be available on audio cassette in November.

Art Gallery 'Faculty Show' will run through Oct.

The Art Gallery and the Infinity Gallery in the College of Arts and Sciences will be showing works by Professor Mary Bookwalter, Professor Paul Schranz, Professor Jay Boersma and Dr. Joyce Morishita for the annual "Faculty Show." The exhibit opens with a reception from 5:30 to 7:30 p.m. Oct. 10 and continues through Oct. 30. Included in the show will be oils, prints and photographs.

Cafeteria improved

Cain has been in the food business since he was 13 years old. "I started scrubbing pots, and by 15 I was cooking. "I stayed in the restaurant and food service business because I enjoy it."

As a student at Northern Illinois University, Cain heard every complaint about cafeteria food. But, he says, he still wants to hear what GSU staff members have to say about the food service here—both positive and negative.

"I'm asking for their input. It's very important people talk to me about what they want, or they can send me a note," he added.

The Second City troupe plays GSU

People have been laughing for generations thanks to The Second City. The Chicago-based comedy troupe is known for its special brand of parity and pun that allows no one to escape from the wit. Mayor or president, bus driver or bag lady—all are possible targets.

This laugh-a-minute entertainment comes to Governors State University Saturday, Oct. 13, when the GSU Alumni Association presents "The Second City Touring Company" in a benefit performance.

The seven-member troupe will open its show at 7 p.m. on campus. Tickets are $20 per person or $30 per couple.

Since its founding in 1959, The Second City has become not only a Chicago favorite, but also an international hit. The Second City brand of comedy has branched into a Canadian Second City, SCTV, The Second City E.T.C., The Second City Touring Company and film adaptations of its material, including "Sexual Perversity in Chicago."

Tickets are available at the cashier's office for this special event.

a school psychology curriculum.

When Stubbs approached GSU for assistance, Dr. Addison Woodward, chairperson of the division, and Dr. Leon Zalewski, acting dean of the College of Education, met with Dr. Sandra Whitaker, professor of psychology, who directs the GSU school psychology curriculum and Dr. Richard Venneri, dean of special programs and continuing education, to design a program that would fit the needs of the Chicago Board of Education.

Starting with this fall trimester, Dr. Gene Wilson and Dr. Suzanne Prescott are teaching classes in the curriculum at CBE offices at 1819 W. Pershing Rd. Stubbs said the classes are full. Other courses will be added during the winter trimester.

Dr. Woodward added that these CBE staff members will be required to take several courses on the GSU campus.

The student-employees already have degrees as guidance counselors and special education instructors. When they complete this curriculum, they will be awarded a master's degree in psychology from GSU.

Stubbs said the working relationship between GSU and the Chicago Board of Education is strong. "Being able to line up (the employees) to a school (GSU) that was willing to lend its hand to help us fix a serious problem is especially gratifying."

wild enough to harbor a prairie. The committee has planned fall burns for these natural areas to promote new growth. Burning also promotes stronger plants forcing others out.

While Betz was encouraging about the methods of starting a prairie, he emphasized that a true prairie won't be part of the landscape for decades. Growth in the prairie changes every two weeks from May through September, and from season to season and year to year.

The professor said GSU's interest in restoring and strengthening its prairie puts it on the cutting edge of a new ecology movement. "Northeastern Illinois is the epicenter of restoration and animal changes on a prairie," he told the committee members. Several Midwest universities are already developing curricula around them. "Conservation biology and restoration ecology are movements of the future. The educational potential (from a prairie site) is phenomenal," Betz added.
