Academic Regalia

The origins of academic dress date back to the 12th and 13th centuries, when universities were taking form. The ordinary dress of the scholar, whether student or teacher, was the dress of a cleric. With few exceptions, the medieval scholar had taken at least minor orders, made certain vows, and perhaps been tonsured. Long gowns were worn and may have been necessary for warmth in unheated buildings. Hoods seem to have served to cover the tonsured head until superseded for that purpose by the skull cap.

During traditional doctoral hooding ceremonies, students and faculty wear academic costumes indicating the wearers' degrees, colleges/universities, and fields of study.

The Gown

The doctor's gown is an elaborate costume, with velvet panels down the front and around the neck. Three velvet bars on the bell-shaped sleeves signify the doctorate.

The Hood

Hoods are the most expressive component of the academic costume. They serve to communicate the school, degree, and field of study through their length and the colors of the lining and binding.

Today's hoods have evolved from a serviceable article of clothing to a type of elongated scarf draped over the shoulders and displayed down the back with the lining turned inside out.

Black and white, the official colors of Governors State University, are represented in the velvet lining of the hood. Each field of study has a corresponding trim color. The trim colors for doctoral hoods represented in this ceremony are:
