FAZE FOCUS: UNIVERSITY RELATIONS
(First in a series featuring University units)

Blowing other people's horns is the main occupation of this GSU unit, entrusted with the task of communicating the University to the world within and beyond Phase I. GSU's various publics are addressed by these U.R. staff members: Director, Bill Dodd, Assistant Director John Canning, Alumni Association Coordinator Ginni Burghardt Miller, Conference Coordinator/Information Office Supervisor Susan Woodham and student assistants De Ce Thompson and Jeanne Foody, Publications Editor Joan Lewis and student assistant Sharon Filkins, and Secretary Pat Burkhardt.

In addition to general supervisory duties as UR director, Bill Dodd spends a lot of time in private fund raising for the University and works closely with the GSU Foundation Board as Principal Executive Officer. Bill, who joined GSU in early 1973, has seen, under his direction, the successful launching of the Foundation as a viable private fund raising and community support organization, and the GSU Alumni Association, a vital link with 4500 graduates.

News Relations is John Canning's game. After 35 years with Standard Oil of Indiana, he has generated a steady flow of GSU news to local and national media since the first days of the University. "Gramp's" thoroughly professional PR style has earned him the kind of respect that exceeds mere credibility.

The newest member of the UR team, but hardly a newcomer to GSU is Pat Burkhardt, UR Secretary. Fondly referred to as the "glue" for holding this diversified unit together, it's usually her friendly greeting that answers the phone or meets a visitor to the office. Faze I emerges in finished form from her typewriter as a labor of love each Thursday, along with the countless other projects processed through UR. As keeper of the calendar of events, Pat generally knows the "where" and "when" of scheduled University happenings.

Ginni Burghardt Miller is chief liaison with GSU grads these days, coordinating the affairs of the thriving Alumni Association, which has become an active voice in the University community. Since its founding in 1975, membership has increased from 117 to 644, with sellout attendance at homecoming and other Alum functions, an indication of the Association's growing popularity. An expatriot of EAS dating back to Hantack House days, Ginni just completed her third year with UR.

Fielding questions on every imaginable aspect of the University, coordinating luncheons, guiding tours, keeping the University "Info Line" current, Susan Woodham applies the personal touch to what could be an impersonal institution. Supervising student workers Ce Ce Thompson and Jeanne Foody who occupy the Information booth for the lost or inquisitive, and coordinating services needed for the many public functions held at the University keep Sue busy. She has been with GSU since 197e and in her present position since 1975.

Publications for the University are handled by editor Joan Lewis. "Best Sellers" produced by Ms. Lewis include the GSU Catalog, recruitment materials, Trimester schedules, assorted brochures, flyers, posters, programs and newsletters, including the staff and faculty weekly publication Faze I, written with the able assistance of the editor's right arm and alter ego, Sharon Filkins. Joan assumed her duties in UR in early 1975.
