By Barbara Johnson

English professor Benjamin Lowe wrote a series of letters to Governor Jim Edgar during the months of March and April in 1991.

In each of Lowe's letters, he expressed concerns of both himself and fellow faculty members. Of major concerns are the cuts in health care benefits, the fact that BOG faculty members are paid 15 percent less than faculty members at comparable midwestern universities and then there is concern of the administration failing to replace lost faculty which directly results in canceled classes and/or larger classes being held.

Lowe states that: "To my knowledge the only thing that the governor did about the letters of concern was to return to me a 'thank you note for sharing my concerns.'"

Lowe feels that with more than six months notice that the governor had, this matter could have been resolved.

University Professionals of Illinois members are not demanding a 15 percent lump sum pay raise. They are simply asking for some sort of pay raise to start to bring them closer to salaries of comparable college professors.

Although the student body in general is supportive of the faculty, there is a larger concern: what will happen to the students? Will the classes be canceled? Will the classes be dropped? Will the trimester be extended? What will be done for winter registration?

These are the questions of every student, and they must be addressed. If a strike vote is unanimously held, how long will it be before the student body is notified of any plans devised for them? Maybe a better question would be, are there any plans in the making for the students—the seemingly forgotten item in this whole affair?

There was a major demonstration at Western Illinois University in McComb on October 17 during the monthly BOG meeting. Mitch Vogel, state president of the UP! locals met with and presented to the board a list of faculty demands, and was promised that the administration would be "keeping in contact" with the local good news. However, as UP! members and students await the administration's contact of the local demonstrations will continue.

There was another major rally held at 11 a.m. in front of the State of Illinois building located at 100 East Randolph St. in Chicago. Students and faculty continue their struggles for 'fair' pay. Attention Students: You are being asked to contact your respective teachers and find out what their intentions are going to be regarding the strike. Some faculty members have said they will cross the picket lines and go to work.

Hispanic Guests Share Their Culture With GSU

By Barbara Johnson

"Speak English! You're in America now. We speak English in America!" "Quit looking at the floor, dummy! Look me in the eye." These comments are made by teachers to Latino children, making school a terrifying place, according to Evelyn Roman-Santos, executive director of the Ruiz Belvis Cultural Center.

Her talk, "The Puerto Rican Experience," was one of three presentations at the Latino Cultural Awareness Program on Wednesday, Oct. 9.

Ms. Roman-Santos spoke of her ten years in Aurora, IL where she attended a parochial school. Classmates and teachers alike had little appreciation for the concerns of a Spanish-speaking student.

"I would run through the halls, unable to find the class and when I finally found the room, would be yelled at for being late."

"At one point, I thought I was finally fitting in. My classmates would ask me to repeat a word over and over..."
It's too late... to give blood in an emergency. Donations are needed every day to maintain the United Blood Services' supply. PF Running and Pancake Club and PF Women's Club are sponsoring a BLOOD DRIVE on Wednesday, Oct 23 between 4 and 8 p.m. at Freedom Hall (Lakeview and Orchard) in Park Forest. Call Rhoda Adler at 748-7120 so she can remind you or she can suggest another drive if that day is not convenient.

ICAN is a savings and investment program... that makes it convenient to start investing for your child's college education. As little as $100 can open an ICAN account. Benefits include exemption from Illinois income tax for the first $2000 invested each year. Call about the Illinois College Accounts Network (ICAN) at 1-800-212-4256. You'll receive complete information about each ICAN provider.

Experience how a disability... would affect your ability to work and learn. The 2nd annual Disability Awareness Day will feature speakers, exhibits and hands-on experience. Computer-assisted simulation of sight and hearing impairment will open your mind. It's a daylong program, so mark your calendar for Nov 13. Haunted houses getting a bit... tame for a fright on Oct 23 at 7 p.m. in Forest and Tinley Park High Schools will be transferred to the Orland Park location. "This will make our job of serving students much easier," Johnson explained. "By tripling our classroom space, we will be able to accommodate the needs of our students and professors, making the situation tolerable for all."

In December 1891, Captain Joseph McFee, director of the Salvation Army's houseless men's shelter in San Francisco, probably never dreamed that a borrowed crab pot placed on a tripod along a busy street would someday change millions of lives.

Yet, 100 years later, that familiar red kettle and symbolic bell have done just that, as thousands of contributors have given monetarily to help others. This year, as more than 40,000 volunteers ring bells at shopping establishments throughout America, the "Sharing Is Caring" season is especially noteworthy.

During this Christmas season, The Salvation Army will offer a commemorative 100th anniversary gift of gratitude to anyone who stops by a kettle site. No donation is required.

Orland Park Campus to Expand

University Park — Expansion work is evident at Orland Park Place Mall these days as Governors State University adds three classrooms and a study area to its space.

The newly remodeled storefront will have one large classroom with seating for 72 students, and two smaller classrooms that each will accommodate 30 students, according to Monica Johnson, manager of GUS's Orland Park facility.

Governors State opened its off-campus site in the mall at 153rd Street and La Grange Road in August 1988 to converting a storefront into a computer lab and a classroom.

During its first year, the center served more than 1,000 students and things haven't slowed down, Johnson said.

Earlier this year, it became apparent that the university needed additional computer space, so GUS leased the storefront next door and converted it into a new computer lab for 22 additional computers and printers.

By doubling the extension area, Johnson was able to schedule non-credit computer workshops in one lab and credit workshops in the other.

But that still didn't take care of the classroom space problem.

Johnson found that the classroom was booked from morning until evening on the weekends, leaving no possibility of booking additional meetings or workshops.

In July, Governors State University approved a lease for a third storefront in the mall directly across from GUS's original space.

GUS maintenance staff have been working on the space conversion, and Johnson hopes to have the classrooms ready by Oct. 31. Several classes now being conducted at Oak Forest and Tinley Park High Schools will be transferred to the Orland Park location.

"This will make our job of serving students much easier," Johnson explained. "By tripling our classroom space, we will be able to accommodate the needs of our students and professors, making the situation tolerable for all."

Counselor’s Column by Judy Hings

Anxiety, a feeling most of us have experienced, is hard to define. It’s a feeling of discomfort and discontent. It’s worrying sometimes for no apparent reason. Or it’s even trouble digesting foods and “knots” in our stomachs.

Whatever your particular reaction, anxiety is real. Dealing with it can be difficult, but one theory of behavior lends itself to the problem very well. If we start listening to the sentences running through our heads, we can usually figure out how we are setting ourselves. The meaning we make of an event dictates our reaction. For example, if a handsome man is staring at me across that proverbial crowded room, I can choose to think, “My, but I’m beautiful tonight. He’s really attracted to me.” Or I can think, “I knew this dress was ugly when I bought it. He really thinks I’m a dork.” Your behavior resulting from the two mind sets will be drastically different— elation in the first situation, anxiety in the second.

So, why were we human animals given thoughts and emotions which create anxiety? Some anxiety is healthy and even necessary. What else would keep us moving forward in life? If you’re uncomfortable, you will work to relieve the discomfort. If you’re always content and satisfied, there’s no need for change. You’re a little bloth without ambition. GSU would close its doors. No one would want a degree. No one would want to get a better job. No one would want to succeed. So make friends with some of that anxiety. It “ain’t” all bad.

The Melting Pot, Don’t Knock It

There are some settlers who contribute to the United States, take the education and anything else that is offered in this country to knock what the United States of America is all about. The references that you have heard about Puerto Rican who spoke at the Latin Cultural Awareness Program. To those who want to give up my culture,” from someone who has been educated in one of the best schools in this country, arrogant but the refusal to become part of the melting pot is even worse.

No one says you have to give up your culture, but I’ve seen that said that this speaker didn’t take the time to tell the audience a little bit about what she is the director of. Why didn’t the audience hear about the discovery of Puerto Rico or the beautiful traditions that are held during the holidays.

Father Carl’s Line

If there is one thing we Americans all have in common despite our many differences, I believe it is the fact that we are all human beings and trying to meet our responsibilities while coping with problems. How many times have we seen confusion, tensions and for some even barriers put up, yes, we are all something like Constitutional kin folk for we live in a relationship to one another by virtue of that special document. And yes, it especially realize that on days like the Fourth of July and Thanksgiving and when we seek justice from our legal system. But the Constitution just doesn’t have the same capacity to knit us together as does a simple reflection on our common humanity.

Life today is complex and demanding as we are faced daily those who try to take their responsibilities seriously, those who try to make their lives count for something. We are surrounded by advantages and opportunities as no people before ever knew it. The material goods available to us seem endless at times and challenge us all to select and use them wisely. In fact, the art of choosing wisely in many aspects of our lives is becoming more and more important especially, critical. It behooves us to think, decide, choose intelligently or we will pay the unfortunate consequences - as in fact so many are doing today!

I say all this because I think it can help us to overcome our many real differences. over them in the sense of seeing what we all have in common i.e., the challenge of living daily life and making it count for something. Perhaps too, it can help us to lead healthier and at least smile at or speak to one another as we go about our busy work. It can help us to thinking that we are the only ones with problems, concerns, etc. Often times, if we can open up and reach out to others, we become more human ourselves. We grow and gain in ways we didn’t expect.

It is in this spirit that I try to make myself available to all here at GSU on Wednesday afternoons in the Campus Ministry Office (A-1086). Regardless of your faith tradition or lack of same, if you would like to talk, feel free to contact me. If you can’t make it at that time, simply phone me (TSU: 469-0404) and we’ll see if we can work something out.

LETTERS AND NOTES

Legitimate concerns of both faculty and students need to be ad- dressed and faculty support the plight of the faculty, a greater concern of the student body is in what will this mean for them in this term? How will this effect the registration for the winter term? Will faculty members enter pro- jected grades prior to the walk out? Will the term be extended? And finally one student asked, “why do we student(s) always have to pay? (We student(s) pay for tuition, parking, books and now must we pay for the poor treatment of administration toward the faculty.)

The questions posed by the faculty need to be addressed not only for the sake of the faculty but also for the sake of the student body, remember the students are what the university is about.

Anything that can be done to help the faculty members should be done, for their unanswered needs will become the plight of the entire student body.

Acknowledging our direct need for each other the GSU students support our faculty. Take a minute to stop and ask a faculty member how you may help.

MEA CULPA

Dear Readers

We apologize for not recognizing Glenn Abbott as the previous winner of the award to GSU’s Dr. Deborn Cross in the photo on page 7 of the October 10 edition of the Innovator.

INTERNATIONAL FESTIVAL PLANNED TO EXAMINE CULTURE AND RELATIVITY

We see the world with colored glasses. The notion of one's country is Pretonic, so to say. I use the term in the sense of Pretonic to whom the Earth was the center of the universe. This brief article does not intend to be a dissertation on ethnocentrism. The history of mankind is witness to the fact that some of the worst wars of this century and before have been fought on the grounds of superiority on one or the other types.

With this lofty ideal (well, why not) the International Student Organization, is organizing an International Festival. This will include varieties of ethnic food, a bazaar and entertainment.

The D-day is Saturday, November 16 from 4:30 to 8 p.m. Admission will be $5.00 for adults and $3.00 for GSU students and senior citizens. Children less than 10 years old will be admitted free.

Festivals of previous years have included dishes and other contributions from Nigeria, Greece, India, Philippines, Malaysia, Germany and other nations. Larry Levinson (advisor), Rajiv Jaggi (president), Rocco Schmakel (vice president), Savitha Paga, Nim, Seema Srivastava, John Talbot, Ananah and many others are working toward the success of this venture.

Members of the International Student Organization dress in their native garb in preparation for the International Festival on Saturday, November 16, 1991.

1991 SECURITY COUNCIL SIMULATION TO BE HOSTED BY GOVERNORS STATE

The Governors State Model United Nations Organization will be hosting the 1991 MUN Security Council Simulation on Saturday, November 9 in the Hall of Honors.

The Model United Nations is an international program designed to allow participating students to interact in global diplomacy and to better understand the nuances of international relationships. The MUN sponsors conferences around the world, including one in Chicago this fall. GSU will be represented by a team of students at the Chicago conference, and will portray delegates from Rumania.

SAM...

Society for the Advancement of Management is sponsoring a food drive from November 4 to November 26. GSU students and faculty are asked to donated canned goods and nonperishable items.

MBSA...

The Minority Business Student Association wishes all student to have a good academic school year. We are off to a running start this year and have plans to enhance our members' networking abilities and career advancement skills.

To facilitate participation in the organization, we are holding meetings for daytime and evening students. On the second Thursday of every month, the meeting time will be 3:30 p.m. and on the fourth Thursday of every month, the meeting time will be 6:30 p.m. Minority students, we need your support. Join us and take part in this most exciting year, as we develop and implement our agenda. Your unique input would be greatly appreciated.
A Blast From GSU's Past

Who was Bill Engstrom? How did GSU come to "Will County"? What's changed at GSU the last two decades? The GOVERNORS STATE UNIVERSITY's 20th anniversary is approaching, Marilyn Thomas, coordinator of public information in the Office of University Relations, began looking for answers to these questions and dozens of others in an effort to publicize the university's founding.

"I'd heard stories about how progressive GSU's early days were, how we originally were in a warehouse and this building was designed without walls, and the courses had strange names, but what I found from those days were formal documents and meeting transcripts.

Pursuing a master's degree in media communications at the time, Thomas decided to do an audio documentary on 20 years of GSU's history as her master's thesis. I wanted to give students thanks to my advisor, Professor EFI Segal, who backed me 100 percent, calmed me when I panicked and was always there when I had questions and concerns.

"My only regret is that I didn't collect stories from everyone on campus who was there in the beginning. That would have been instrumental in the organization of the institution. I collected interviews over a seven-month period, and even at that I simply ran out of time," she said.

I hadn't done the project finished for the 50th anniversary. In July of 1989, I'd barely scratched the surface. But I did get to interview Bill Engstrom, GSU's first president, and Robert Haufler, GSU's first registrar, who returned to campus for the anniversary celebration," she added.

Thomas has transcribed his audio script for the written word and has agreed to share GSU memories with students through A Transcript: The Innovator: The 13-part series begins with this edition.

"She plans to donate her interview tapes and finished product to the GSU Library.

South suburbsites began celebrating. Then Gov. Richard Ogilvie and the university's new president, William Scariano, were the honored guests at a dinner July 20, 1965, at Olympia Fields Country Club.

Organizer Patremberger remembers the event. "We had Governor Ogilvie sign the bill that enabled the university ... right in front of everybody... and that was the moment the university was born. It wasn't a fake. It was the real bill."

President Engstrom immediately brought word of this new university to the community. Alice Hansen of the Registrar's Office who was one of GSU's first students, learned about the university at church.

"Bill Engstrom came to the Unitarian Church and he spoke very seriously about what he envisioned as GSU and how it was to change and shape what it was to have, and he was extremely dynamic," she said. "And, I remember just feeling so thrilled about the fact that there would be a university close by... I thought my golly, just one mile from my house. This is just like a gift. It really was a gift."

Local AARP Will Hold Workshop

AARP, American Association of Retired Persons under the direction of Illinois District Director Frank Ertl, will hold a workshop on how to get action started. His theme is "Building a Better Health Care System," on Thursday, October 21st promptly at 9:30 a.m. until 12:30 p.m. at the Dorchester Inn, 1515 S. 14th Street, Dolton at no charge with plenty of seating.

This is needed now, not after the presidential election. Presently Americans are spending 600 billion and in no time at all will reach a trillion dollars. Take responsibility and ask Doctors their fees up front, cost of tests and don’t accept answers as, “Don’t you want to get well.” “What do you care your insurance company is paying the bill?” or “Doctor: is this test you suggest very peremptory.” Please don’t accept answers as, “Do you want to stay sick if you don’t accept our suggested testing.”

Seniors, as well as anyone interested in their health and its rising cost including organization, men and women’s clubs are welcome to become involved in making our legislators face the U.S. Health Care System. Don’t be a pawn to accept today’s health care coverage as OK. This is every American’s Challenge to make our legislators and newspaper editors listen to the people here in America now. We must have better long term care for everyone.
