History balances the frustration of "how far we have to go" with the satisfaction of "how far we have come." It teaches us tolerance for the human shortcomings and imperfections which are not uniquely of our generation, but of all time.

The ultimate music experience this season

By BRUCE DUGUID

Many who have gone to numerous concerts throughout their lifetimes have searched for the ultimate live musical experience. Here is the candidate for this year: last Tuesday's Governors State University President's concert.

The audience donated $50 a seat to hear the university's fine String quartet, and their guest artist, the internationally renowned pianist Grant Johannesen, perform an outstanding evening of chamber music.

The highlight of the evening, if there could be one great moment separated from another was the Brahms' Piano Quintet in F. Minor, Opus 34 composed in 1861-64.

BRAHMS never worked rapidly, and it took several versions before this piano quintet reached its final form. It is typical of Brahms with his lyrical flowing but powerful melodies, great piano as well as string virtuosity and the great balance of the group overall.

Having the GSU Quartet perform the work with Grant Johannesen is a south suburban dream come true — like a musical fairy godmother granting an ultimate wish — and what a fine performance by all!

Johannesen's solo work was the Beethoven Sonata No. 18 in E-flat, Opus 31 No. 3 of 1802. When the guest artist sat down at the piano, one could see that the audience was going to be entertained by a master craftsman. He performed a powerful interpretation of the middle-period Beethoven piece. Johannesen's piano is not merely an extension of his fingers, he is the master of it and its music and last Tuesday night, Beethoven as well.

THE AUDIENCE at the music recital hall also listened to the GSU Quartet alone in bright interpretations of Mozart's "Eine Kleine Nachtmusik" K. 525 and Hugo Wolf's "Italian Serenade."

The quartet comprised of violinists Francois d'Albert and Elmer Rosen, violist Robert W. Shamo and cellist Alan Rostoker performed the Mozart, one of his most frequently performed compositions with great feeling. The opening movement was played briskly but not as crisply as it should have been, but with that movement aside, the rest of the piece was a delightful experience for all.

The Wolf "Serenade" is performed in many different formats, but the original was for quartet. It is Wolf's only pure instrumental work — all of his other works were set for voice and instruments. It was performed skillfully and it shows the great progress the quartet has made as a group since its inception several years ago.
