I thought how sadly beauty of inscape was unknown and buried away and yet how near at hand it was if it could be called out everywhere again.

Courses for Educators Offered

GSU is offering a variety of undergraduate and graduate courses, primarily for teachers, at six locations in Chicago's northern suburbs during the Winter Trimester (January through April).

Participants may earn up to four hours of credit, depending upon the course. "Statistical Methods" and "American Urban History" are offered for four hours, while the following, "Sociology of Street Crime," "Group Process," "Principles of Behavior Change," "Abnormal Psychology" and "Scientific Foundations of Health Care" will be offered for three hours. In addition there is a two hour workshop on "Behavior Management" and a one hour workshop on "Teenage Substance Abuse."

Graduate courses specifically for educators are "Matching Teacher/Learning Styles," a three hour workshop, and "Innovative Approaches to Reading and Writing Instruction," also a workshop, offered for two hours. Two computer courses are to be taught concurrently: "Computers: Logic and Design," and "Computer Programming: Applications." Both of these are for two hours of credit.

For locations, schedules, costs and other information contact the GSU/Hawthorne Educational Center, 200 Glendale, Wheeling, Illinois, telephone 520-1335. While registration in advance is desirable, students may register as late as the first meeting of each class at its designated site.

EMT Training for Security Personnel at GSU

Emergency medical training for police and security personnel is being offered at GSU each Tuesday from January 12 through March 16, 9:00 a.m. until 1:00 p.m.

The Police Medical Training program (PMT) was developed by GSU's Department of Public Safety in cooperation with St. James Hospital, Chicago Heights. It is structured specifically for police, security personnel, and others whose work situation often puts them first at the scene of an accident. Course instruction will concentrate on the measures to take to maintain a life until further assistance arrives.

April Bisaga, R.N., director of the Department of Emergency Health Education at St. James, is the instructor. She has trained the entire GSU public safety staff and many others in emergency procedures over the past few years.

Students will receive 36 hours of classroom instruction during the ten weekly sessions. They will earn a PMT certificate and identification pin upon completion of the course. The participants are then required to take 9 hours of continuing education a year to maintain certification.

Marian Marzynski, CAS, will appear on CBS Television, Channel 2, Sunday. He will discuss his impressions of the situation in Poland, as he saw it developing, with the co-hosts of the program "Two on Two" at 10:30 p.m.

GSU-Community Chorale to Rehearse for Spring Concert

The Governors State University-Community Chorale, under the direction of Dr. Rudolf Strukoff, will begin rehearsals for its fifth annual spring concert on Monday, January 11, at 8:00 p.m. in the Music Recital Hall.

Former members and others who have had some singing experience are invited to participate in the program of secular music, which will be performed on April 25.

The program, according to Strukoff, will consist of "Liebeslieder Waltzes," by Brahms; "Song of Human Rights," by Hanson; and "Choral Fantasia," by Beethoven.

The Chorale rehearses every Monday night from 8:00 to 10:00 p.m. until concert time. For further information, call Ext. 2461.

GSU Offering Child-Study Workshop

A workshop entitled "The Effects of Family Change on the Child" will be offered on three successive Saturdays at GSU beginning January 16.

Designed for teachers, nurses, counselors, social workers, ministers, lawyers and law enforcement officers, the workshop will focus on "Divorce and the Child" on January 16; "Single-parenting and the Child" on January 23; and "Remarriage and the Child" on January 30. Sessions will be held from 9:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m., and participants may earn two hours of college credit.

Instructors will be Harriet Minkin, Jean Livingston and Susan Levine. Minkin has worked as a clinical social worker with United Charities of Chicago, Family Service Bureau and the YWCA. Livingston has been a school social worker for ten years in the southern suburbs. She has led support groups for children involved in divorce for three years through the YWCA. Levine has worked with individuals and couples with the Family Service Agency of Joliet. She currently works with children and families as a school social worker.

For further information, contact Peg Donohue in the Office of Special Programs, Ext. 2549.

Altruism Has Its Rewards

Recently, a University of Washington business law class was canceled because of budget cuts, but the instruction went on. Lawyer Allen Lane Carr says he "uncanceled it" and proceeded to conduct the class without pay.

The students in the class, all 45 of them, thanked him at a surprise ceremony at which they gave him a $50 gift certificate for dinner and $13 in cash for a fill-up of gasoline. One student went further and named Carr for a $2,500 good teaching award.

"I got a little moist in the eyes," Carr said later. "I told them that if this was going to be my last quarter teaching, I was glad they were my last class."

Fanaticism consists in redoubling your efforts when you have forgotten your aim.

You will find men who want to be carried on the shoulders of others, who think that the world owes them a living. They don't seem to see that we must all lift together and pull together.
