ALARM ACTIVATED -- The evacuation alarm will be activated briefly during each of the free afternoon workshops on "GSU Emergency Operations and Procedures," according to Norman Love (DPS).

Would you really know what to do in the event of a fire, an explosion, or a tornado at the university? What steps should be taken, where should you go? Presentations addressing these questions will be made by Philip Orawiec (DPS), Michael Foley (PPO), and Michael Grubermann, chief of the University Park fire department. A question and answer period will be included.

University staff, faculty, and students may attend the one-hour workshop from 4-5 p.m. on either Jan. 21 or Jan. 28. Contact Dorothy Sherman (PERS) Ext. 2194 for reservations.

PDK MEMBERS SOUGHT -- Prospective members of the Governors State University Phi Delta Kappa (PDK) chapter are invited to attend the Feb. 14 dinner meeting at the Tivoli II restaurant. The topic presented will be "Dollars and Sense in Education."

PDK is an international education group. Its chief goals are to initiate educational research and practice educational service and leadership to promote the free quality public education essential to democracy. A member must have received or be working on a graduate degree and be committed to the goals of PDK.

Dr. Prince McLemore (CE), president of the two-year old university chapter said their immediate goal is to increase membership from 72 to 100 members. Information concerning meetings and the spring membership initiation may be obtained from McLemore, ext. 2369.

RECIPES REQUESTED -- Often overheard at holiday buffets and potluck luncheons at the university is the question, "Do you have the recipe for this great...?" In response to considerable demand for a GSU community recipe book, university relations has agreed to accept recipes to be printed in booklet form in the near future. You can submit them on the form below or on a reasonable facsimile. Send to Nancy George (UR) by Feb. 15.
