April is Performing Arts Month at GSU

April is a festive month at GSU — a festival of performing arts. In honor of the late founding dean of the College of Cultural Studies, now integrated with CAS, the series of events are being called the "Alphonso Sherman Memorial: A Celebration of the Performing Arts."

Among the many events scheduled to take place is an opera workshop presented by the Lyric Opera Center for American Arts, of Chicago, on Saturday, April 17 from 2 to 4 p.m. and a recital performance of Mozart's "The Abduction From the Seraglio" at 8 p.m.

Sunday, 4 p.m. April 18 is the farewell band concert of Robert Hindsley, retiring conductor of the GSU/Community Symphonic Band. The opening performance of the GSU Theatre production of "A Company of Wayward Saints," directed by Temmie Gilbert (CAS), will be on Friday, April 23 at 8 p.m. The play will have three more showings on April 24, April 30, and May 1.

The GSU Community Chorale will have its annual spring concert on April 25. Music of Brahms, Hanson and Beethoven will be featured. The concert starts at 4 p.m. On Friday, April 30, at 8 p.m. the climax of the series of arts events will be the President's Concert highlighting guest artist and internationally known pianist, Michel Bourgeot, who will perform with the GSU String Quartet. Works of Debussy, Franck, Ravel and D'Albert will be on the program.

Also taking place in April, although not a part of the official celebration, are other musical events: April 8 — The GSU Jazz Ensemble Concert in Music Recital Hall, 7:30 p.m.; April 21 — the Student Activity sponsored Treeside Cafe, 4 and 5 p.m. Hall of Governors and April 23 — Contemporary Music Series — The Lonnie Brooks Blues Band, 8 p.m., Music Recital Hall. This is also a Student Activity Program sponsored event.

CAS Student Receives Internship

David Johnston, a graduate student majoring in Environmental Science with an option in Ecology and Conservation, recently began his co-op/Internship in wildlife conservation at the Cusino Wildlife Research Station at Shingleton, Michigan, located in the eastern upper peninsula of the state. Johnston's internship represents the first out-of-region appointment for the Science Division. Prior co-op/Internships were located in the Illinois/Indiana GSU service area.

Johnston is assisting researchers this month in a study of the physiology and behavior of the white-tail deer in a cedar swamp in the peninsula area.

Women's Center Offers Tax Advice

Nora Brashear, former tax consultant for H&R Block, will discuss "Last Minute Tax Advice" at the monthly Brown Bag Lunch of the Women's Resource Center at GSU on Thursday, April 1.

The public is invited to this meeting, which will be held at 12:00 noon in the Honors Dining Room, adjacent to the cafeteria. There is no admission charge.

Subsequent assignments include wildlife productivity studies at Rose Lake Wildlife Research Center and animal field survey studies at Houghton Lake Wildlife Research Station.

The internship, which will end in June at East Lansing, Michigan, was arranged through the Science Division co-op/Internship coordinator, Louis Mule, (CAS), Environmental Science. Through this arrangement, Johnston is interrelating his academic learning in field methods and animal behavior to career experience in wildlife conservation.

GSU Sponsors Third World Conference

GSU, announcing as the theme, "Global Interdependence and National Development II," sponsored the Eighth Annual Third World Conference, an intercultural/interdisciplinary meeting which included speeches, discussions and film screenings, as well as an "International Buffet and Cultural Event" featuring the GSU Jazz Ensemble, Warwick Carter (CAS), director. The focus of the conference was on the traditional areas of the Third World: Africa, Asia, the Caribbean, Latin America and the Middle East, but included also the Third World communities in the United States and Canada.

Lenora R. Cartright, commissioner of human services for the City of Chicago was also a keynote speaker during the Third World Conference. She discussed "Assessing the Reduction of Public Sector Spending: The Case of Human Services Delivery in Chicago," at the 3:30 p.m. plenary session on Wednesday, March 24.

The objective of the conference was the promotion of a spirited exchange of ideas among scholars, public/private officials, students and the lay public on the many problems confronting the Third World community as it prepares to enter the 21st century. Keynote speakers were Lenora T. Cartright of the Department of Human Services, City of Chicago, and K. R. Narayanan, the ambassador to the United States from India.

GSU offered undergraduate or graduate academic credit of one to three hours to qualified students who attended the conference.

K. R. Narayanan, ambassador to the United States from India, was a keynote speaker at the Eighth Annual Third World Conference sponsored by GSU at McCormick Inn, Chicago, March 24-27. His topic was "Global Interdependence and National Development: The View from India," at the 6 p.m. plenary session on Thursday, March 25.

GSU Business Grads Fare Well in CPA Exams

Graduates of GSU's College of Business and Public Administration who took the examination for Certified Public Accountant (CPA) in 1981 achieved a significantly better success rate than the national average, according to Dean Robert Milam. Thirteen of 15 GSU students passed all parts of the exam on their first attempt last year. The nationwide first-time-pass rate is about 15%, Milam said.

The successful students, all with concentrations in accounting in the Division of Accounting/Finance, include: Thomas Rudolf, Bradley; Laurel Dreyfus, Flossmoor; Karen Daza and Claudia Thomas, Hazel Crest; Robert Perkins and Kenneth Gill, Matteson; and Larry Schumacher, Oak Lawn.

Also, Nancy Liberman, Olympia Fields; Dennis Shannon, Palos Hills; Walter Dale and Harold Beatty, Park Forest South; Bernice Frederick, New Lenox; and Pam Furler, South Holland.

Accounting courses in preparation for the CPA exam are offered at GSU throughout the year. Day classes meeting twice a week and night classes meeting once a week are open to both degree and nondegree seeking students. Interested students can register for the Spring/Summer Trimester from now through April 12.

For further information, contact the College of Business and Public Administration, extension 2241, or the Office of Admissions, extension 2518.

Workshop Focuses on "Buyer Brokering"

The concept of buyer representation (rather than seller) in real estate transactions is not new. It has been widely used by and for large commercial concerns. However, there is a small but growing group of real estate practitioners who are beginning to utilize the concept for the home-seeker.

On Wednesday, March 31, at 1 p.m. in Room D3201, Karen Brown, CRS, will be the guest speaker and leader of a workshop on "Buyer Brokering" in real estate. While this presentation is primarily for those enrolled in real estate courses, all students and others from the GSU community are welcome to attend.

Published

A new book on Social Work Practice With Minorities by David R. BURGEST, (HLD), has been published by Scarecrow Press, Inc.

Burgest researched the material for two years. He provides a conceptual framework for students, educators and practitioners of the social work profession and related fields. The 322-page book contains 29 readings by a range of authors representative of many ethnic and racial groups, providing different perspectives and points of view.

The hard-bound book is available at the GSU Book Store or from the publisher.

Burgest has also co-authored, with Joanna Bowers, an article, "Erroneous Assumptions Black Men Make About Black Women," which appeared in the Black Male/Female Relationships Journal, Winter, 1982.

College of Lake County Tops GSU Jazz Festival

Jazz musicians from the College of Lake County, Grayslake, Illinois, took four of the ten top spots at the recent Eleventh Annual Community College Jazz Festival sponsored by the Division of Fine and Performing Arts at GSU.

Malcolm X Community College, Chicago, won three top awards and Washtenaw Community College, Ann Arbor, Michigan, walked off with two. The Shepard High School big band, from Palos Heights, directed by Tim Watt, received top award in the high school category.

Lake County's awards included best combo, directed by Bruce Mack; David Bandman, section leader; Dan Prowse, drum soloist; and Jim Batson, bass soloist.

Malcolm X won for soloists on trumpet, Kenneth Askins; trombone, Jerome Lawson; and saxophone, Larry Weathersby.

Washtenaw's awards were for best community college big band, directed by Morris J. Lawrence, Jr.; and flute soloist, Cheryl Loyd.

Judges were Donald Byrd, trumpeter; Aaron Horne, reedman; and Robert "Bobby" Roberts, guitarist, composer and arranger. Warrick Carter (CAS), chairperson of the Division of Fine and Performing Arts was coordinator of the festival.

Phi Delta Kappa Club

The Phi Delta Kappa Club at GSU will have Robert Hewlett, Director of Educational Services for the Regional Office of the U.S. Department of Education as guest speaker at its monthly meeting.

Hewlett draws on his experience as an educator and career officer at the federal level to address the topic, "Mr. Reagan and the Department of Education." Hewlett returned recently from a trip to Washington, D.C. where he met with Reagan administration officials to discuss educational policy matters.

Phi Delta Kappa is an international organization interested in the development of public education. Faculty, friends and students are invited to the monthly meetings of the GSU chapter to talk with others interested in education and to participate in discussions on significant educational issues. The meeting will begin at 6:30 p.m. in the Area B Lounge on Thursday, April 8, 1982.

SHP Honors Exceptional Students

Twelve SHP students were honored March 5, 1982 at the second annual School of Health Professions Recognition Dinner. Two outstanding students from each of the School's majors: Communication Disorders, Alcoholism Sciences, Allied Health Science Education, Medical Technology, Health Services Administration, and Nursing.

The scholars are: Joan Arme, Frankfort; Phyllis Bergeron, Kankakee; Jessie A. Clayton, Chicago; Lenore H. Darcy, Flossmoor; Patricia Galloway, Oak Forest; Michelle Grandinetti, Homewood; Jean Hochertz, Country Club Hills; Susan Pavich, Chicago; Herman Rueck, Chicago; Joyce A. Sabatini, Burbank; Janet C. Wilson, Richton Park; and Candace Zolno, Chicago.

SHP students must meet rigid entrance and exit requirements. One out of three persons entering the SHP program will not graduate. Many have full-time employment, family obligations, and financial burdens and also have a long way to travel to get to classes at GSU. These responsibilities, plus the long hours of study are real burdens that many students must surmount to achieve their degree. Those students who made special efforts to excel, not only academically, but also in human relations as judged by their peers and the SHP faculty were the ones who were honored at the Student Recognition Dinner.

Rev. Caleb Rosado, pastor of All National Seventh Day Adventist Church, Barrien Springs, Michigan will be the keynote speaker at the South Suburban Network for Multicultural Education Workshop to be held at GSU on Tuesday, March 30 from 8:30 a.m. to 3:45 p.m. His topic will be "Are the Aspirations of Multicultural Education Compatible With the American Way of Life?"

A Message from the President

Dear GSU Employee:

We have selected the period March 16-31, 1982 for our 1982 U.S. Savings Bond Campaign. During this time, we would like everyone to take a fresh look at the Payroll Savings Plan, which we are happy to offer as a benefit to all employees.

Payroll savings offers a person a chance to design a supplemental savings plan to fit his or her particular needs. Regular saving is something we all talk about — but very often we never get beyond the talking stage. One of the surest and easiest ways to cross the borderline between words and action is to participate in payroll savings.

Savings bonds now yield 9%, compounded semi-annually, if held until they reach face value at eight years (8½% after five years), and all outstanding bonds participate in future rate increases, so you won't get left behind. The interest is exempt from state income tax and may be deferred for Federal income tax purposes until you choose to redeem the bonds. What's more, once past the age of six months, bonds may be redeemed at any time, making them a good source of reserve funds to protect your less liquid investments.

Please note that you may also choose to have your bonds registered to your child's name, and the interest reported annually. This is a popular convenient way to build an education fund.

Please review the leaflets being distributed by your area canvasser, and consider the benefits this plan offers. If you feel it has a place in your financial future, just complete the Bond Authorization card and return it to your canvasser or to the Personnel Office.

Sincerely,

Leo Goodman-Malamuth, President
